

STATELY MANNER
Designer Thomas Callaway
in his Brentwood home

LOS ANGELES AND SAN FRANCISCO

PATTERN PLAY

By Maile Pingel | Portrait by Melissa Valladares

For more than 27 years, Thomas Callaway has been designing homes, both their exteriors and interiors—and it's all due to a funny twist of fate. Callaway had been working as an actor for years, but after getting media attention for the redesign of his own home, his passions shifted, ultimately leading to the launch of a design firm, Thomas Callaway Associates Inc. (8140 Orion Ave., Van Nuys, 310.828.1030, thomascalloway.com), in 1989. Based in Santa Monica, Callaway, whose clients include Larry David, Steve Martin and Alan Ladd Jr., recently embarked on a new endeavor: a line of textiles. "Several friends had started product lines, and I thought it sounded like a fun idea—especially textiles, as it was the closest thing to painting," says Callaway. "It made me remember my days studying art history in Europe." Inspired by early 20th century Parisian artists, Callaway set about creating designs for the better part of a year. The collection developed after an initial meeting with revered London fabrics firm Holland & Sherry. The Left Bank Collection—which won World of Interiors' Best Fabric Collection of 2015—feels fresh and modern yet tied to the past, echoing Callaway's proclivity to reference historical periods with a modern sensibility. The collection has met with such success that Holland & Sherry is expanding it and releasing the designs as wallcoverings and rugs early next year. Having recently completed beach houses in Malibu and Del Mar, and with work progressing on condos in Century City, West Hollywood and New York City, among others, Callaway is, as always, at the top of his game. 111 Rhode Island St., Ste. 1, San Francisco, 415.552.2144; 8687 Melrose Ave., BM66, West Hollywood, 323.802.0693; hollandandsherry.com

Harlequin Stripe

Available in Mais, mandarine, Piment (shown), Étain and Fauve, hand-screened on 100 percent linen, $130 per yard

Da Da Stripe

Available in Gris and Cactus (shown together), Bleu and rose, hand-screened on 100 percent linen, $130 per yard

Paris Collage

Available in Latte, Mais, mandarine, rose, Menthe and Bleu (all shown), hand-screened on 100 percent linen, $135 per yard

ORANGE COUNTY

TOP 5

When in Drought

Premier nursery Roger's Gardens reveals its principal landscaping tips during California's historic drought. —Meg McGuire

1

Apply a Mulch Layer

To conserve water, reduce runoff and improve plant health, add 2 to 4 inches of mulch to the surface of the soil.

2

Cycle Irrigations

Opt to water landscaping in cycles with soaking periods in between. A break allows water to seep deeply into the soil, preventing runoff and reducing water consumption.

3

Garden in Zones

Always plant likeminded biennials in zones to properly distribute water and eliminate over irrigation. Succulents should never be planted next to water-thirsty plants and vice versa.

4

Pick Water-Conserving Plants

Select foliage like succulents and California-native plants that are both water-preserving vegetation and thrive in the Golden State's climate.

5

Switch to MP Rotators

Traditional spray heads cause heavy mist and drift, and distribute water too quickly. Solve these drought-related issues by switching to MP Rotators which are simple to install.

2301 San Joaquin Hills Road, Corona del Mar, 949.640.5800, rogersgardens.com

PLANTED PARADISE
Roger's Gardens offers drought-friendly tips to keep your garden lush all year long.

THOMAS CALLAWAY TEXTILE PHOTOS BY JENNY GORMAN; ROGER'S GARDENS PHOTO BY WHITNEY DAVIES